LAKELAND, Fla., Jan. 13, 2021 — Today, Publix and Florida Governor Ron DeSantis announced the availability of COVID-19 vaccinations in Collier, Flagler, St. Johns and Volusia counties. The expansion is part of Governor DeSantis’ allocation of additional doses of the Moderna vaccine to be administered to individuals ages 65 and older. Eligible individuals can make appointments beginning today, using the online reservation system at publix.com/covidvaccine, with vaccinations starting Thursday, Jan. 14. The announcement brings the total number of Publix pharmacies offering COVID-19 vaccinations to 105 in 12 counties.

“For 90 years, Publix has served its customers and communities in times of need,” said Publix CEO Todd Jones. “Our ability to provide these vaccinations to Florida’s 65-and-older population is a privilege. We are grateful to Governor DeSantis for his willingness to work with us to serve our communities.”
